

Terra Madre Tales: Eating Our Way Through Turin

Wednesday, January 18, 7 pm

Turin, Italy, is the site of Terra Madre, Slow Food's biannual gathering of food lovers from all over the world—farmers, fishers, artisanal food manufacturers, chefs, and community activists. Last fall six Mid-Valley residents traveled to Italy to participate in this event. Joel Rea, Clara Baker, Kent Fleming, Rose Marie Nichols McGee, Leslie Carter, and Lisa Hargest (photo below) will tell their Terra Madre tales on Wednesday, January 18, at 7 pm at the Corvallis Public Library. Clara, a musician and music teacher, will present sounds that she recorded at Terra Madre; the others will show slides; and we'll all taste foods inspired by the Terra Madre experience. Please join Slow Food Corvallis at this free event, open to all. (photo above, a pyramid of honey in Turin).

WHAT: Talks, photos, and food from Turin, Italy, by Slow Food Terra Madre delegates

WHEN: Wednesday, January 18, 7 pm

WHERE: Corvallis-Benton Co. Public Library, 645 NW Monroe Ave, Corvallis, (map)

COST: FREE

SPONSORED BY: Slow Food Corvallis

Contact us: slowfoodcorvallis@slowfoodcorvallis.com

