

Wild and Native Foods Event- Slow Food Corvallis

Saturday, October 17th, 2 to 4 pm

When out walking in the woods or wetlands, do you ever wonder what edibles are available? Please join Slow Food Corvallis for an informative and celebratory afternoon about Wild and Native Foods. Washington State University botanist Duncan Thomas will give a presentation on the botany, ethnobotany and preparation of our wild foods.

After the presentation, there will be tastings of gathered/prepared foods including acorn cakes, roasted camas, nettle soup, pemmican and more. Slow Food Board members began collection and preparation of edible wild foods in the spring and look forward to sampling the outcome with you.

WHAT: Wild and Native Foods program to include an expert presentation and tastings

WHEN: Saturday, October 17; 2 to 4 pm

WHERE: Chintimini Senior Center, 2601 NW Tyler, Corvallis OR 97330

ADMISSION: FREE, donations to defray expenses welcome

Participation is limited so please RSVP at this link:

<http://goo.gl/forms/dYi4C06G1X>

Sponsored by Slow Food Corvallis

